

Orate pro anima domini Roberti Kellett quondam rectoris istius ecclesie qui obiit xvii<sup>o</sup> die Septem

This brass is described by Aubrey and Manning and Bray as "fixed to a gravestone in the chancel."

(4) On the south wall of the north chapel, John Wexcombe. The two-line inscription gives no details, but Mr. Stephenson dates it as c. 1390 and places it ninth in order of age among Surrey brasses. Aubrey does not mention it, but M. and B. describe it as on a stone in the north chapel; Bashall say it was found in 1875 "imbedded in mortar" and placed on the north wall of the chancel; I do not know when it was placed in its present more suitable position.

anima Johannis Wexcombe hic qui tumulatur
 vite perpetue Christi merito dirigatur.

The lines seem intended for hexameters.

B. Other Monuments.

These are noteworthy as including the work of three well-known sculptors; where the design is of no special interest I give no details and, as a rule, do not give the inscription in full; an asterisk shews that the inscription is quoted in one or more of the histories.
